

SENIOR DIRECTOR OF DEVELOPMENT, COLLEGE OF MEDICINE–TUCSON
UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA
Tucson, Arizona

The Aspen Leadership Group is proud to partner with the University of Arizona in the search for a Senior Director of Development, College of Medicine–Tucson.

Reporting to the Dean, College of Medicine–Tucson, the Senior Director of Development will design and implement fundraising strategies that will generate revenue and drive the growth of the College of Medicine's mission. The Senior Director will supervise a team of fundraisers and manage the identification, education, cultivation, and solicitation of major and principal gift prospects, while personally managing a major and principal gift portfolio. The Senior Director will be a member of the University Development Program (UDP), managed by the University of Arizona Foundation. The Senior Director will partner closely with College of Medicine–Tucson leadership, the University of Arizona Foundation, and the University Development Program to create and exceed fundraising goals and objectives for the College of Medicine–Tucson.

The University of Arizona College of Medicine–Tucson is transforming academic medicine through innovative undergraduate medical education and post-graduate training programs; strategic, interdisciplinary trans-institutional research; collaborative health care delivery; and a strong, diverse, and engaged faculty. The College of Medicine–Tucson provides state-of-the-art programs of medical education, groundbreaking research opportunities, and leading-edge patient care. The College of Medicine ranks among the top medical schools in the nation for research and primary care and has graduated more than 4,000 physicians.

The college's integrated, multidisciplinary curriculum combines the latest advances in biomedical science with the practice of the classical art of medicine. In 2015, The University of Arizona partnered with Banner Health, the fourth largest health care corporation in the country, which serves as the college's primary clinical partner. Affiliations with more than a dozen hospitals and health-care facilities across two campuses ensure that students will always have access to groundbreaking research opportunities, world-class faculty, and meaningful patient-care experiences.

A strong engagement and fundraising program is a critical component of the University of Arizona College of Medicine–Tucson's strategic plan. Increased private philanthropy from alumni, grateful patients, community members, institutional funders, friends, and other constituencies is vital to the college's future impact on the health of people in Arizona, the nation, and the world.

The College of Medicine-Tucson is part of the University of Arizona Health Sciences (UAHS), a statewide leader in biomedical research and health professions training. UAHS is comprised of the University of Arizona Colleges of Medicine (Phoenix and Tucson), Nursing, Pharmacy, and Mel and Enid Zuckerman College of Public Health; and 23 centers and institutes dedicated to research and patient care, with main campus locations in Tucson and the growing Biomedical Campus in downtown Phoenix.

A bachelor's degree is required for this position as is at least eight years of experience managing, directing and leading a comprehensive fundraising program or equivalent in a higher education, nonprofit, or academic medical setting. All applications must be accompanied by a cover letter and résumé. Cover letters should be responsive to the mission of the University of Arizona, College of Medicine–Tucson.
